

How to make a Palm Cross

Palm crosses are traditionally given to church attendees on Palm Sunday - the Sunday before Easter when Christians remember Jesus riding into Jerusalem on a donkey and being cheered by the people shouting 'Hosanna'.

You need a strip of paper about 60cm long and 2 cm wide. If you don't have a single sheet of paper big enough cut two strips from the long side of an A4 sheet and join them together. Taper one end. Fold this long strip as outlined in the diagram.
